THE DAILY AVALANCHE.

THE DAILY AVALANCHE

There is a vase in the Paris Exhibition worth $2,000. It is made from a single tur-

One hundred bales of hemp sold in Waverly, a farmer realized $3268 from the sale of wheat and corn.

An order forbidding the exhibition of colored people from the street cars in Galveston, Texas, has been issued.

The Honolulu Advertiser predicts that within a few years a submarine telegraph cable will be laid between that city and San Francisco.

General Sherman, at St. Paul, recently declared that he was a Democrat. He said: "No, sir, I am not, and never was. I am a soldier."

The Metropolitan Street Railroad Company of Washington has a new car, just received. The car is to be drawn by one horse, and no conductor will be needed.

John B. Gough, it is said, has been engaged to deliver a series of lectures in Chicago this winter, for which he is to receive the handsome sum of $12,000.

The cultivation of cotton in the Sandwich Islands is said to be carried on extensively and profitably. Large receipts of choice Sea Island had been received at Honolulu.

A robbery of $12,000 worth of bonds was adroitly perpetrated Wednesday, in New York, by a man representing himself as a Texas trader.

Semi-official news from Paris intimates that the recent conference between Napoleon and Francis Joseph at Salzburg has secured the peace of Europe.

Mutton was sold at four cents per pound in Washington market, New York, on Friday; forequarters at two cents—the warm rain being hard on meats.

Major Wickliffe Cooper, of the regular army, recently committed suicide near Fort McPherson (by shooting himself). Major Cooper was colonel of a Kentucky Federal regiment during the war.

If all the hay and track scales that the Messrs. Fairbanks have built were placed in a continuous line, it would form a plank road from Harrisburg to Philadelphia. The fact carries considerable weight with it.

The Bookers, who assaulted and dangerously wounded Mr. Glass, Editor of the Republican, in Lynchburg, not long since, have appealed to General Schofield, either for a change of venue, or for a trial by a military court.

The London Times says a fit of the gout, which prevented Sir J. Harding, the law officer of the Crown, from answering the questions put to him regarding the pirate Alabama, allowed that vessel an opportunity to escape; hence the Alabama claims are attributable to Harding's gout.

The total debts of counties in the State of New York are, in round numbers, $80,000,000, $38,000,000 of which are on war account. The National Intelligencer asks how much is the State debt? How much the debt of cities? What is the proportionate share of New York in the national debt?

The Springfield Republican says that Ben Butler is interested in a new breech loader, and is determined to foist it upon the Government, and make it supplant the Allen gun. The partial suspension of work in the armory, and the turning out of five hundred men is laid to Butler for the same reason.

On Friday night last, says the Lynchburg News, the bed room of Colonel R. L. Owen, on Daniel's hill, was entered by some daring thief, and his fine gold watch and chain, worth about $500, together with some ten or twelve dollars in money, and a number of bonds stolen. Colonel Owen and his wife were asleep in the room at the time, but so noiselessly were the rogue's operations conducted, that neither of them were awakened.

The World is cynical in this: Miss Vinnie Ream, of Washington, denies the assertion that she is modelling a bust of General Lee. This young lady has attracted much attention and thereby ruffled the temper of more ancient and less attractive females. Mrs. Swisshelm, for instance, remarks: "She is as lavish in the display of her own bust as of those of her Congressmen patrons." Mrs. Swisshelm's severity, which is doubtless owing to the fact that she could not be successful in an attempt to go and do likewise, will probably melt in proportion to the decrease in the price of cotton.

A few evenings since a daughter of Mr. James Murphy, about seven years old, residing in Yonkers, had a narrow escape from suffocation by a pet cat. An aunt of the little girl on going to the room where the children slept, was alarmed by hearing a strange purring sound and the heavy breathing of one of the children, and procuring a light discovered the cat on the chest of the little girl, obstructing her breath, and the child apparently dead. The cat was removed, the child instantly rolled upon her side, and it was with no little effort that she could be aroused from her stupor.

A Washington writer to the London Telegraph gives his view of the United States House of Representatives. He says: I am reminded all the while of a low style of pleading in court. I see before me a crowd of third-rate lawyers, who are playing the old tricks of the trade. I never heard a word that is destined to live or fix itself in the hearts of men. My criticism does not refer to Mr. Wood alone. I do not believe there is a man in the present House of Representatives of either party who could gain or would deserve a second hearing in the House of Commons or a French Assembly. Deplorably low as is the general style of discussion in the American press, it often rises far above anything uttered in Congress.

Few things place the unscrupulousness and sagacity of the late Lord Palmerston in a stronger light than the facts lately elicited by the arrangement made with the King of Egypt to join the British in a campaign against the Emperor of Abyssinia. Our readers are doubtless aware that the grievance of which the English complain is the imprisonment of their Consul and some other Englishmen by order of his sable majesty, in revenge for Queen Victoria declining the honor of his hand and heart as successor to Prince Albert. Palmerston seriously proposed investigating the royal wooer to Alexandria to meet the Queen, and then kidnapping him, or else palming off on him some bogus Queen Victoria as the real genuine and original royal female Jacobs. The Queen's indignation was intense, and of course Palmerston's plans were abandoned. But the first idea of investing the sable savage to Egypt would certainly have saved many lives and much treasure.

Facts About the Cotton Trade with England.
From the New York Tribune.

The Commissioners of English customs, in a recent report on British commerce for the year 1866, present some interesting facts in relation to the trade between that country and the United States. It appears that the imports to the United States from England in 1866 amounted to $142,420,700. The chief articles of import were as follows: Cotton goods, $15,000,000; linen goods, $20,000,000; millinery and haberdashery, $5,000,000; soda and alkali, $5,000,000; worsted stuffs, $20,000,000; tea plates, $7,500,000. Notwithstanding the restrictions of the tariff, we imported $25,281,900 more goods from England in 1866 than during the previous year. This shows an increase of one-fourth in the amount of our purchases from that country in a single year.

But England has also been a liberal customer of this country. While our imports increased one-fourth, our exports increased one-half, amounting in 1866 to more than double the amount in the two preceding years. Of course this increase in our exports was chiefly cotton. Last year we sold England $110,000,000 worth of cotton. In 1864 England obtained from the Confederate States cotton valued at $1,325,000. In 1865 our cotton exports amounted to $25,000,000. Our exports of breadstuffs amounted to very little, owing to the deficiency of our crop, being valued at about a million and a half dollars, against an exportation of grain in 1864 amounting to $18,425,170. But notwithstanding the drawback, our exports to Great Britain were larger last year than ever before, with the exception of the year 1861. The total exports to Great Britain from the United States amounted in 1866 to the enormous sum of $224,363,420 70 specie of this sum the exports from the Southern States amounted to over half, or to $120,000,000.

From these statistics it will still appear that cotton is still king. But his empire is broken and divided. The aggregate amount of exports last year was swelled to the increased prices of the staple. Of 12,282,808 cwts. of cotton imported by England, only about a third, or 4,000,000 cwts., were procured from the United States, leaving about 7,000,000 cwts. obtained from other sources. Previous to 1861, the average amount of exports of American cotton to England was 7,000,000 cwts., and the supply of only 4,000,000 cwts. was obtained from all other parts of the wyrds. Now the conditions are entirely reversed. India alone sent to England last year not less than 5,498,770 cwts.—very nearly the amount of our exports before the civil war, and larger than the quantity purchased from this country. Egypt sent 1,055,960 cwts. of cotton. Brazil 613,808, and China 32,000 cwts. Other countries sent smaller supplies. As an evidence of the extent to which the culture of cotton in foreign countries has been stimulated by the inducements held out by the English Government, it may be stated that no less than ninety-five countries are mentioned in the customs report as having sent larger or smaller supplies to Great Britain during 1866.

These figures show the comparative success that has attended the efforts of the English Government to obtain cotton from other sources beside the United States. They are also important as exposing the fallacy of certain writers to the effect that it is quite possible for us to recover our monopoly of the cotton trade, even with the heavy tax burdens to which it is now subjected.

Dr. Host. P. Hunt.

The Louisville Journal, with "heartfelt pleasure," publishes the subjoined just tribute to a true and noble man:

I am impelled by a sense of duty to express the surprise all must feel who knew Dr. Hunt at the comments upon his death in some of the Northern papers. Before the war, residing in the city of New Orleans, Dr. Hunt stood among his fellow men with few equals and no superior. Educated in France, he possessed every accomplishment that renders an elegant gentleman companionable. With all that high toned honor and principle that awaits a man among men, with every noble trait of character, he was blessed with great wealth; and, in his princely home, dispensed to all that generous hospitality for which he was distinguished. Happy and prosperous then, he could not meet with fortitude the troubles and reverses brought on him by the war; although shared by his devoted wife, who was an ornament to his magnificent home, as she is now to her simpler one. All who know Mrs. Sallie Ward Hunt pronounce her noble, lovely, and admirable as wife, mother, daughter and friend. This glorious woman adorns the cottage with the same grace and happiness that she did erected when surrounded by every luxury a lavish husband's wealth provided. Dr. Hunt leaves a proud name to his wife and child. Generous, honorable, and loving to all, every admirer will draw the curtain over his single fault or weakness, and bless his memory!

A special dispatch to the Missouri Democrat, dated Dentonia, August 30, says: Last Saturday night Mrs. Frank, living near New Richmond twenty miles from here, left her husband's house after some bitter words from him, taking an infant with her. Next morning the child was found strangled by the mother's hands, in the stable, and the unfortunate woman hanging dead from one of the beams. Frank had treated his wife with great cruelty for some time past.

THE DAILY AVALANCHE.

Aaron Jones is still q[illegible] his daily appearance [illegible] great, as all [illegible] Saturday he [illegible] to discover [illegible] point it is believed he is [illegible] His quiet and unassuming [illegible] made him many friends, and [illegible] confidence in his capacity [illegible] there is not the slightest evidence [illegible] in his conversation. He is faithfully [illegible] after by Mr. Cusick, who is engaged [illegible] the best factory in this country, and [illegible] in the world.

We hear that McCoole has lately been paying more attention to his training, and is consequently improving in condition. Perhaps he has awakened to a sense of his job on hand, and don't feel quite so confident of his ability to polish off [illegible] as he was a few weeks ago. There is no [illegible] that McCoole is considerably the junior of Jones. Now, the contrary is the fact. The latter was born in 1838, and McCoole in 1832, so that the more aristocratic combatant does not possess the generally conceded advantage of juvenility.

The betting is somewhat mixed. In St. Louis considerable money has been deposited at odds of one thousand to six hundred dollars on McCoole. Here he is the favorite at one hundred to seventy-five, while in New York they are betting odds on Jones.

The fight will come off, if nothing intervenes to prevent it, on the thirty-first of this month, and we believe that the Nashville trip has been abandoned, and that the ground selected for the "mill" will be reached by railway. As the day draws near the excitement increases, and however much the moral sense of propriety may be shocked, there is no question that the affair is the prominent topic of interest of the day.

It is contemplated to get up an entertainment for the benefit of Aaron Jones, within a week or ten days, at Mozart Hall, upon which occasion he will put in an appearance in fighting costume, and set-to with a scientific amateur.

Mr. Thomas Kenney, an old citizen, died on Tuesday last [illegible] in the county jail of Adams county [illegible]

The worm has made its appearance [illegible] in Greenville county, S. C.

Mrs. Margaret Jenkins committed suicide at Aberdeen, Mississippi, by taking laudanum or arsenic, last week. Death was the Coroner's verdict.

The Herald and Mississippian says: [illegible] As we are now ready, we give notice [illegible] that has been made on any of the victims of the late negro-raising affair."

John Lasley, convicted of man-slaughter in killing Caldwell, [illegible] years in the penitentiary, was refused a new trial at Aberdeen, and appealed to the High [illegible]

The cotton worm has made its appearance in Lafayette county in this State. The Oxford Eagle of Saturday says: "Should these [illegible] continue [illegible] destruction [illegible] late early, we may apprehend the most serious results to this great and important [illegible]."

The Haslehurst News of the 10th says: "We learn that on Wednesday night last our fellow citizen, Col. E. R. Brown, living in the west part of this county, had one hundred and thirty-five bales of cotton destroyed by fire. The fire occurred through the carelessness of a crazy negro, who was building fires for the destruction of the cotton worm."

The Brookhaven Journal says: We learn that [illegible] the present year [illegible] and that [illegible] and [illegible] to furnish seed for the next year. We are assured, however, that the corn crop in that county was never so abundant.

The Vicksburg Herald and Mississippian informs us that Honorable Amos R. Johnson has declined to represent the Convention party at Raymond. Honorable Wiley P. Harris, has also declined. The Herald and Mississippian says it is apparent that these gentlemen, although they may not have altered their views, are not rampant in urging them upon the people, especially at this crisis.

There are some startling developments, says the Vicksburg Evening Telegraph, in the case of the body recently found in the river at that point with a grindstone around the neck, and identified as that of Montgomery, a lumber merchant. It is said that he had just sold a large amount of lumber, for which he had received the money. He was decoyed into one of the low dance houses on Adams, and there butchered with a hatchet; and his mutilated body thrown into the river. Billy Mack, now in jail on serious charges, is, we understand, implicated also in this horrible affair.

The Brandon Republican [illegible] the 15th says of army worms and caterpillars: "The first time the army worm ever destroyed the cotton crop of the South was in 1866, and it has done the same thing [illegible] twenty-one years since. In 1825 it made a clean sweep, and again in 1846, and from present appearances it will do the same thing in 1867. A gentleman from Simpson informs us that they are nearly all over that county. Another gentleman from Smith says they are doing great damage there. [illegible] our exchanges from various [illegible] same in many counties in [illegible] election [illegible] We have heard of them on [illegible] plantations in this county, but as yet [illegible] not done much damage."

Alabama Items.

The Tuscaloosa, (Alabama) Observer learns that planters in the Bigbee valley are offering 50 to engage their cotton in the field at forty cents.

Thirteen of the Alabama emigrants to Brazil returned home recently, thoroughly disgusted with the South American Empire. They say there are hundreds of Americans in Brazil without money or the ability to make it.

The Huntsville Independent says: John C. Howell, 2d Lieutenant 55th Regiment Alabama Confederates, fell into the hands of the enemy and was carried into a hospital, at Kingston, Georgia, July 28th, and died July 30th, 1864—having received four gunshot wounds and had a leg amputated. Before dying he took a ring from his finger, and requested it should be sent to his relations. The ring is in the hands of a United States Army Surgeon, who wishes to comply with this request of a dying man, although an enemy. The ring is of little value, intrinsically, but may be of great worth to a mother, sister, or wife. Any information to this effect, identifying the deceased, and his surviving kindred, will secure to them the ring.

Tennessee Items.

The Grand Jury of Giles county, Tennessee, has found a bill against a colored teacher of Pulaski, for whipping a white child, and he has been held in $2,000 bail.

Brownlow's militia at Paris, West Tennessee, have been reinforced by a recent arrival of fifty more of the same sort.

A huge rattle snake, measuring eight feet in length and ten inches in circumference, was killed near Athens a few days ago.

A twenty-four pounder howitzer was fished up from the bottom of the Tennessee river at Johnsonville, the other day. A number of similar pieces are said to be lying in the same place this was found.

A private of Captain Evans' company of militia is now being tried before the militia Court Martial at the Capitol, for house breaking at Johnsonville.

A few days since Mrs. Melinda Frierson, of Maury county, living six miles west of Columbia, sold her farm, consisting of one hundred and thirty acres, for $13,000 in cash, to Mr. Shacklett, of Pennsylvania.

The Lincoln county News says: Never in the history of this county has the prospect been so promising for an abundant corn crop. In some localities the stalks are falling to the ground from the actual weight of the ears of corn.

One of Brownlow's militia officers, says the Paris Intelligencer, stole a pair of pants last week, in Ripley, from Mr. Joe Rosenthal. Joe made the "welkin" come to time, and refused to compromise on the word "take." Bully for Joe!

The cabin of a negro named Franklin, near Gallatin, was entered Wednesday morning just before daylight by Franklin's son-in-law, who was also shot, but made his escape with a bad wound in the thigh. Franklin was a carriage driver for Mr. Franklin, of Gallatin. The murderers are unknown, but are supposed to be negroes.

The Knoxville Whig says that Mr. Wattenbarger, who threatened the Lutheran Church on Big Limestone, in Washington county, came to a horrible death on the evening of the 16th instant. He was hauling logs for several friends, and after they had entered a dense wood a terrific tempest of wind came up, and they made their way for open land with all possible speed. Just as Mr. Wattenbarger, who was behind his companions, was emerging from the timber through a gap in the fence, the top of a large tree fell upon him, killing him instantly, and mutilating his body and limbs in a most horrible manner.

A Nashville dispatch, August 31, says: E. W. Cole, who claims to be President of the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad, having been elected by the stockholders and the Directory against the Republican candidate, applied to Judge Brien, of the Circuit Court of Davidson, for a mandamus to give him possession of the road and stock. Judge Brien will hear the case at the regular term of the court, next month. Whatever his decision, the matter will go before the Supreme Court next December.

The Nashville Banner says: About eight o'clock Monday night, private John Lavecomb, of the Forty-first infantry, was in the Cumberland Barracks in a drunken condition. Captain Gilray, of his company, ordered him to his quarters, but he would not obey. The captain became exasperated and called Lavecomb a d—d rascal, when the latter struck the former in the mouth with his fist and knocked him down. As the Captain rose he pulled out a revolver and shot Lavecomb in the forehead, the ball glancing off and injuring it severely, but not dangerously wounded. Lavecomb was confined in the guard house, and will be court-martialed.

The party of Indians which made the attack on the rancho at Big Thompson, the early part of this week, were followed by seven men, and overtaken a few days since. A hard fight ensued. Two whites were killed and two escaped. The other three have been heard from. The Indians manifested cowardice.

A Card.

We will at once rebuild our warehouse, and will have it completed by the 15th of September, but by the first day of that month we will be prepared to receive cotton.

The stands will be divided into five grand compartments as for the last two seasons, and those who may have stands in the old warehouse will be accommodated with new ones ready for them.

We design establishing a Cotton Compress in connection with our warehouse, upon an adjacent lot, which will be ready by the 1st of October or sooner. The business of our establishment is the river receives the handling of cotton, and we claim that we can transfer cotton for shipment by river free of drayage. The advantage of the position is at once apparent, as all cotton sent for compressment from other warehouses, while on all cotton in our warehouse for compression there has to be two drayages saved, since it would be as easy for us to transfer it from our shed to the Compress as to turn it out in the ordinary way for transfer by drays.

GROVER & BAKER'S

CELEBRATED

ELASTIC STITCH & LOCK STITCH

SEWING MACHINES

Why the Grover & Baker Machine is Best.

1. It is more simple, durable, and less liable to derangements than other machines.
2. It sews from ordinary spools, and so reversible of thread is necessary.
3. It sews with equal facility all fabrics, the most delicate and heavy, and with all kinds of thread alike, cotton or linen, hard or soft.
4. It runs also stronger and faster than it is ever safely used, with any other.
5. It fastens both ends of the seam by its own operation.
6. Its seam, though as elastic every stitch is, remains firm, and neither runs nor ravels in wear.
7. Its seam is more perfect and beautiful, and retains its sightliness and beauty after washing better than any other.
8. Its upper thread can be drawn in all kinds of work, after proper tension is obtained, without tying or cutting.
9. Winding and adjusting the tension, or the threads necessary in other machines, is unnecessary in this. The tension being once adjusted on the Grover & Baker machine, any amount of sewing may be done without change.
10. It makes beautiful embroidery stitch, by change of position of the feed bar, without any change of working parts. It is the only machine that is. It fells, braiders and sews perfectly.

THE newspaper estimate of CHASE'S enormous wealth has brought out a letter from the Chief Justice, in which he confesses to one hundred thousand dollars, and expresses a willingness to take that amount in five-twenties and make a clear conveyance of all he is worth in the world, to any one who will pay his debts. He facetiously suggests that he is not "particularly poor." A man worth a hundred thousand dollars was once considered quite the contrary; but times have considerably changed, and men have changed with them, and "a plum" is now thought to be a moderate fortune. CHASE contents himself with the satisfactory thought that not a cent that he has acquired belongs of right to anybody else, and denounces "the rascals who are slandering him." This letter is rather more flippant and less dignified than one would expect from a Chief Justice, occupying a position made honorable by the venerable MARSHALL and TANEY. Although its taste may be questionable, the country will be gratified to learn that he, who holds the highest judicial office in the land, has acquired his wealth without peculation. It is a rare thing, now-a-days, and doubtless the Chief Justice was aware of the prominence it would give in public opinion, to establish a character for honesty. As a politician he has not been so "clear in office," but with an eye steadily fixed upon the Presidency has used every means and appliance which he could grasp to keep himself prominently before the country, anxiously awaiting the "good time coming," but apparently biding that time with patience. Selfishness has been a master passion with him, and he permits few scruples to clog his way to the accomplishment of his purposes. He may be "indifferent honest" in money matters, but it is to be hoped the country may be spared the infliction of ever having him for President. He would willingly convert all his means into five-twenties! How much has he already invested in bonds? He would be free from taxes. He does not wish to contribute to the revenue, either to defray the expenses of government or to discharge the interest on the public debt. His patriotism begins and ends in self. He would be a large bondholder and get his interest in gold. He knows what it is to be a bondholder.

"The bondholder rides in his carriage,
He is one of the privileged few
Who smiles with pride on Government bonds,
But leaves the drudgery for you,"

the people, who have to "work, work, work," and pay taxes that these lordly bondholders may receive their coupons in gold.

THE Cincinnati Commercial, that claims to be independent, but inevitably leans to the Radical side, ventures upon the suggestion that, "The state of affairs is decidedly favorable to the nomination of SALMON P. CHASE as the Republican, and GEORGE H. PENDLETON as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency." We do not put much faith in the predictions of this flippant though pretentious journal. It has always been for CHASE—but is, ready to speak in accordance with, if not in anticipation of his wishes. The intimation that his nomination is more than probable, is an indication that CHASE wishes it—nothing more. As if to show how carefully watched is the above suggestion, the Commercial hints that, "There are many chances for a triangular contest for the Presidency if GRANT should become the Conservative candidate"—throwing out the idea that a "third party in the North" would support Mr. PENDLETON. In the event of GRANT being the Conservative candidate, which is not probable, however, and which we think is a delusion, we are almost positively certain that Mr. PENDLETON, who is a patriot, would not permit his name to disturb a united opposition to the candidate of the Radical party. He is now battling manfully in Ohio to win the popular mind from its idols, and check the mad career of Radicalism. His speeches are clear and comprehensive, and are marked with the vigor and perspicuity which are the distinguishing features of the intelligent and patriotic statesman. There is no gentleman who would more honorably grace the Presidential office, or whom we would more cheerfully support, but no individual claims or preferences can now be allowed to conflict with the one paramount purpose, the overthrow and wiping out of the Radical party. That we have every reason to believe is Mr. PENDLETON'S highest ambition, while we have reason to hope it will be accomplished in his own State, where his noble exertions are now being made in support of the great cause of freedom.

OUR neighbors in Helena are proceeding in the proper manner to get good white house servants, and it would be well if the Southern people everywhere who desire to employ similar labor would follow their example. We have been shown by our clever fellow-citizen, Colonel WILLIAM DARDIS, an agreement gotten up by General HINDMAN, and signed by himself and fifteen other housekeepers of Helena, binding themselves to take a certain number of house servants, some one, and some two, at stipulated prices which they agree to pay. They give preference to those of Irish nativity, and pledge themselves to extend to them kind treatment, comfortable quarters and prompt payment monthly, in return for good and faithful service. They constitute Colonel DARDIS their agent to secure them the services of such servants as they desire. We like this plan. There is system in it, and system is inviting. While labor to the South is essential to bring here a desirable and proper class of emigrants. The foreigner and his family arriving in the seaports of the North, is the victim of so much deception and rascality that a general distrust seizes upon his mind, and he loses confidence in all the schemes proposed for his benefit, whether real or pretended, good or bad. But when a paper like this from Helena is exhibited to him, signed by the parties who desire the services of himself or family at a stipulated price, he has assurance that no deception is really desired. He will then come here and bring with him the honest purpose to work faithfully and become a permanent and good citizen. We commend this plan of the housekeepers of Helena, to all of our Southern people who desire to secure white labor.

In the United States District Court of New York, on the 15th, before Judge Blatchford, in the matter of the bankruptcy of James W. Seymour, the defendant, a petitioner in bankruptcy, was arrested and is still in custody by virtue of an order issued from the Supreme Court at the instance of one Roseway. It appears that Seymour was Roseway's agent in New Orleans, and while acting in such fiduciary capacity, failed as alleged, to make over returns to an amount of about $5,000, which the petitioner has included in his schedule filed in New Orleans. It was contended that the debt having been conducted in a fiduciary capacity does not come under the provisions of the bankrupt act. The court held that the debt having arisen by an evident defalcation of the debtor while actually in a fiduciary capacity, could not be discharged by any proceedings in bankruptcy.

WASHINGTON, August 22.

The rains of yesterday and night before, done much damage to the crops, bridges, etc., in this neighborhood. Yesterday afternoon the Rockville stage, in crossing a ford four miles from the city, was washed down stream and three lady passengers drowned.

The Turkish Minister was introduced to-day to the President by Secretary Seward. He presented his credentials and was formally received.

The Navy Department received a dispatch detailing recent events at Formosa.

Admiral Bell, under date Shanghai, June 19, says: Left Shanghai June 7, in the Hartford, accompanied by the Wyoming on the 10th he armed 181 sailors and marines of the two ships with muskets and rifles, put on board four days' rations of provisions and water; stopped on the 12th at Jakas, where we obtained an interpreter and received on board the British Consul, Charles Carroll; on the morning of the 13th we anchored within half a mile of shore, in an open bay at the southeast end of Formosa. The landing party was put ashore at 9:30 p.m., under Commander Belknap, of the Hartford, Lieutenant McKenzie second in command. Savages were seen assembling on the hills two miles distant, armed with muskets. They were visible most of the day, and displayed courage and strategy equal to our native Indians, gliding through high grass, and from cover to cover, delivering their fire. They retreated, followed by our men, who frequently fell into ambush. Our detachment pursued in this manner until out of sight of the ships, when halting to rest the marines crawled up and fired upon the party commanded by Lieutenant McKenzie. That officer, placing himself at the head of Lieutenant Stand's company, charged into the ambuscade that was laid for him, and fell mortally wounded by a musket ball, and died while being carried to the rear. Several officers and men having already received sun strokes, and the command being greatly exhausted and worn out by their efforts to get at the enemy, Commander Belknap thought it expedient to return to the beach. During this march of two or three miles many of the men got in such a deplorable condition, from the killing heat of the sun, that the commander determined to regain his ships, which he reached about four p.m., after an exhausting march of some six hours. The fleet surgeon reported the casualties of the day one killed, fourteen sunstruck (four dangerously.) No sailors, indeed no troops unaccustomed to such life ever displayed better spirit, but it was apparent that sailors are not adapted to that kind of warfare against jungle enemies and could only hope

HEALTHY AND REFRESHING BEVERAGE.—Soda water, when scientifically prepared from proper material, is one of the most healthy and refreshing drinks which can be imbibed during the heat of summer, but owing to the cheap and consequently indifferent manner in which it is usually made its popularity is not as extensive as it would otherwise be. Messrs. Schiere, druggists, corner of Main and Adams street, have spared no trouble or expense in procuring the finest machinery requisite for the manufacture of a really superior article, and one glass of soda water from their fountain will convince the most inexperienced or undivided taste that it bears no resemblance to the soda water usually sold that does fine champagne to enhance whisky. Owing to the skill and quality of the articles employed in its manufacture they claim for their soda water superiority over any in the city, and that it is equal to any in the world. They only ask from the public a single trial to convince them of the justice of the claim.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.—We are pleased to learn that the Reverend Father T. L. Powers will open a parochial school for boys exclusively, on the first Monday in September, in the large three story building just north of St. Peter's Church, on Main between Market and Winchester streets. This school will be adapted to all classes—the poor boy whose parents are not able to educate him receiving the same attention as the son of the well-to-do citizen who can afford to pay tuition. We wish the pious Father all success in the praiseworthy enterprise, and trust he will be properly supported. None of the financial "situation" assumes a livelier and more cheerful color he will commence building a magnificent school house on Washington street, where he has already leased a most eligible lot. In the meantime, let the friends of education rally around and build up the parochial school.

A fracas that resulted in the killing of a black man named Duggan, at Central Point, the junction of the Pigeon Roost road, Brinkley avenue, Union street, and Beale street, occurred last evening about seven o'clock. Duggan owned a small hill to the keeper of a grocery in that vicinity, named Duncan, a white man, and when "dunned" for the money is charged with having told Duncan's clerk that "no G—d white man could make him pay anything." A colored man named Sevier heard it, and when Mr. Duncan questioned Duggan about it he denied having said so, but Sevier proved that Duggan had said it. This led to several altercations yesterday, and last evening Duggan was about to assault Sevier, when the latter seized a musket, and blazing away put a heavy load in Duggan's stomach and bowels, inflicting such wounds that death was inevitable. Sevier was arrested and held for examination.

Important to Merchants.

It was decided by which it was grown, unless it paid the the payment of such tax was given. The United States collector for the counties of North Mississippi was located by the representations of large merchants to facilitate a deputy here to collect the tax or compromise in the case of cotton grown in Mississippi. The Government gave greater satisfaction to all parties than was anticipated. LOUISVILLE, August 23.—General Thomas is temporarily absent in Western Virginia, and has not as yet started for New Orleans to take command of the district to which he has just been assigned.

WASHINGTON, August 23.—A special to a New York paper says now it is a settled fact that General Howard will be relieved of his position as Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau. The President has contemplated making the change for a long time, but not until Mr. Stanton and General Sheridan were removed did he definitely decide to act in General Howard's case. The order for the removal may be looked for this week; but, indeed, it is expected every day at the headquarters of the Freedmen's Bureau. General Grant is opposing this step of the President, and will have a protest similar to those on the removal of Mr. Stanton and General Sheridan.

The course of the New York Tribune toward Grant has determined those of his friends who manage his Presidential affairs to make his pronounce his adhesion to Congress. The General himself to-day announced that he would hold no communication with newspaper correspondents. The Tribune of this morning stoutly assert that Grant's letter to Johnson, about the removal of Stanton and Sheridan, is radical and decided. The friends of the President, on the contrary, say that General Grant made merely a cold and formal objection to the removal of Stanton and Sheridan.

The Intelligencer to-morrow will urge the removal of Mr. Seward, as an editor of that paper was in consultation with him last night. This is significant.

The President is understood to have said that he would accept the resignations of Messrs. McCulloch, Welles and Randall. He wants to make a new deal and have fresh cards for the remainder of the term. This may be regarded as semi-official. Mr. Adams, Mr. Bingham, Governor Andrew, Senators Sherman, Dixon, Doolittle, Anthony and Fessenden are all mentioned in connection with Cabinet appointments. The work of changing the Southern Generals, and all Generals not in harmony with the President, will continue. Terry and Sheridan have been sent out to fight the Indians and guard wagon trains. Howard will soon follow.

General Sickles' head is in danger; he will probably be sent to New Mexico, while Pope will be returned to the Sioux country. General Meade will probably take Sickles' place, and General Halleck the place of Pope.

DAILY AVALANCHE OFFICE,
SATURDAY, August 24, 1867.

Having a little leisure on our hands just now, we propose saying a few words to our friends in the country. Early in the present season we addressed them occasionally, urging them to devote part, at least, of their lands and labor to grain. Those who did not overcrop themselves have the satisfaction of realising the benefits of this course. They have fine crops of corn in prospect, and almost ready to be gathered. It will not injure if suffered to remain on the stalk until the stem is partially decayed, when it may be more easily broken off. Instead of paying the highest market price for corn, with the incidentals of transportation and commissions, they will have it at home, and to such quantities as to defy want, if not to sell to their less provident neighbors who confined themselves to cotton only.

In this connection let us again urge our agricultural friends to prepare their ground in time for a large turnip crop. New ground that is used for the first time is the best. It should be well broken up and harrowed thoroughly. The seed should be sown broadcast and lightly brushed in. This is a certain and very prolific crop, and well repays the labor bestowed upon it. Cattle relish the turnip either in its raw state or cooked. It is excellent for sheep and other stock.

It has been estimated that ten millions of dollars have been expended by the people of Mississippi for corn since the last crop.

The worm is doing considerable damage in Yazoo county, Mississippi, and has appeared in Warren and Claiborn counties.

The Aberdeen Examiner of the 20th says: "Cotton is a most luxuriant crop," and "fodder pulling in progress." The wheat raised in Monroe county turns out flour that "rivals in quality the finest article imported from the West."

The Enterprise correspondent of the Columbus Index, writes under date of the 19th: "Agricultural prospects in all this region are encouraging. The corn yield will doubtless exceed that of any former year; whilst the cotton promises well, and if no serious mishap befall it, the crop will be heavy in proportion to the area planted. The planters in this section are beginning to turn to practical account the doctrine so often preached to them by fellow-correspondents, that the best interest of an agricultural county requires that it shall be self-sustaining; and hence, we look over broader fields of corn and narrower ones of cotton, as we traverse our hills and valleys, and feel assured that next year, at least, our corn cribs and smoke houses will not be so exclusively located in the great West."

The Brookhaven Journal, of the 15th, says: "Thus far, in this county, the worm has done but little damage to the cotton, for which we ought to be most thankful."

The Goodman Star reports that the crops in that section of the State were never so promising as now, and an abundant harvest is confidently anticipated.

The experience of the current season should inspire the planters to increase the breadth of land sown in wheat, and during the month of September it should be prepared. Every one should have his field of wheat. It does not require much labor, and will repay the planter for preparing his ground.

The Canton Mail of the 17th, says: "The wheat and oats are usually growing been harvested, and the corn not subject to any further disaster, the cotton is the only crop to speak of, and this, so far as our information extends, is doing very well. The boll worm has done but little damage in this county. The dry hot weather has not been favorable to their propagation or longevity."

The Panola Star, of the 17th, has this: "The corn crop is now nearly matured to be seriously affected either by rain or drouth, and to-day it has not been surpassed for a number of years, is to give but a very feeble and inaccurate idea of what it really is. An abundance of fodder is now being saved, which will obviate the necessity of buying Northern hay the coming winter and spring. We make the statement upon the judgement of several farmers, that corn can be bought full fat in this county for thirty cents per bushel. The cotton crop is decidedly more promising now than at any time before, by which term we wish to be understood that the will not materially affect the yield. No boll worms have been seen as yet."

An old merchant remarked to us to-day, that if not for the Chamber of Commerce, he would be ignorant of the general trading condition by the opening of the
